01

This is something written in typescript. Two engineers from Amazon and Groww have created it. A beginner might find the syntax intimidating. But it's lucid syntax never makes you feel that. This 'toy programming language' is?

02

This country-made robot is majorly designed to detect Improvised Explosive Devices. The robot was also inducted into the army. Using X-ray vision, it can identify dangerous objects and can defuse them. It can tow suspicious vehicles away from crowded areas. It can also be controlled from a very far away distance. The robot has been made in collaboration with Tata motors and some others.

03

It is a complex system that produces a tremendous amount of data. The data tells you what happened and when it happened. It constantly analyzes the data to identify areas for improvements,new products or even new business models. It extends the life of equipment and assets and it reduces operating cost. What is the name of the technology?